

Cain and Abel by kate of gaia

While the masses stare utterly blinded by the literal reality they accept as real, they will miss the greatest show in the universe. They will grovel at the feet of their masters, in churches, synagogues, mosques and the like and will cry when their masters beat them but, return they will, until such a time as they start to reach beyond this litter of the all. I have covered this particular literary couple many times and, as far as I can tell, I was the one that put a feminine face to Abel where everyone thought her to be a male, a brother to Cain where she was his sister/psi-star.

They are the representation of the energies of Magnetic and Electric or the ME. Please put aside all notions of coincidence because, there are none, unless your ego programming wishes to argue a truth of truths and render you a fool once more. When you can finally accept that sound creates all things physical and material, then, and only then, will you finally grasp the power of the spells called whirreds. If I can create a shape, put my intention via sound in it, then convince you that that shape means something and you agree, then I own your mind with MY intentions AND control your utter creational spirit breath or Rho.

This is why we need to grasp the concept of phonics of a whirred versus the spellings lest we be rendered spellbound by another's intent constantly. These sigils, letters, numb-ers and symbols/cymbals (spirit of creation war) have been well indoctrinated into all of us where, by our agreement of what they say/se'/create or sound like, has us invoking the spells of another. Once you break this spell by removing all perceived rules and stop only using the original creators intentions of all grammar, all languages, you can then now use these rules or "laws/lahs" against them. Roman law is based on Phoenician law therefore, those who make the rules MUST obey the rules where I choose to use the rules of creation itself now.

Take Cain for example. He was a tiller of the earth, one who reaps a harvest from the seeds planted and, when he appeared before god in the story, god was very displeased. Abel on the other hand brought a flock of sheep, an allegory for the little children commonly known as humanity. Let me show you a myriad of perspectives on how their names give the game away. Cain, sounds like cane and something you need to be Abel to walk if one is crippled somehow. Abel is just that; quite Abel to walk without a Cain. The two prefixes of "in" and "a" can both mean "not". Ca can sound like Ka or Sa and "bel" can be spelled "bell" and that word can be "something to ring" or "war". Remember, there are no rules now where only your intent is concerned.

Let's take a look at all the potential intentions we can have once we break these spells. It is only necessary that you get the concept, not the redefinition of literally every word. That's a good thing because the words can take on countless forms and meanings where the original intent is safe until you regain your intent by reclaiming your tongue/taurus/torus/torahs etc. So Cain can mean "spirit not", "spirit in", crippled, a sugar, unconditional love with yin in the mirror (a/6 and e/9, yin and yang) of "I" made mine. Cain, like Abel can be both positive and negative, equal and opposite all at the same time. Duality creates the split where I'm showing how to re-fuse that union/onion by peeling the layers. A-bel can mean "a war" or "no war", yin war, know war, a bell, no bell/Nobel etc.

It is far more important and, only important, that you get the concept of removing all grammar-ed rue-els/rules/roux-els so that you can set yourself free of this spelling trap. As soon as you get the "aha!" moment regarding this, the spell is broken. This is a spiritual game that humanity, for the most part for eons, has been playing in from the physical, literal meatstick angle/angel only but then, that's the point of the game to me. Also, once this finally sets into your new way of seeing/hearing things, you will begin to see/hear an exponential increase in your supposed coincidences where the magic begins to unveil itself in short order.

The game is simple to me; it's not what we do to set ourselves free individually, it's what we do to free ALL of humanity and consciousness free that matters. As this unfolds you may get the notion that if the spells no longer trap your intention, can they be used in the mirror? The easy and most accurate answer is yes you can but not from a vengeance intent lest you be at effect to those self-same intentions yet again which keeps you going circular. I think it's safe to say that those who work for the system are far more asleep and living in the literal material world more than us non? Are they owned by their money, their greed and are they transfixed on this reality being real? Yup. So, if we were falling under the Phoenician spell, then so must they be only deeper and more at effect to it.

Looks like we have the upper hand in intent now then doesn't it?

This is where you begin to see your intentions manifesting in real time where you are seeing things from the "look what I caused" versus "look at how emotionally roped in I am". We are literally at effect to our own causes, see them as an external effect from an external source as to how they affect us emotionally, get all dramatic about it, either positive or negative, and spiral deeper down being the continuous, at effect, to the effect, of the effect, ad nauseum. Only when we regain our sight of the true cause of everything in our perceived reality being ourself, the literal world loses its grip on you and the magnificence of your creation ability starts to return.

If I can control your intent, I will control your cause. If I can invoke an emotion, I own your mind. Thoughts are seeds and why god was disappointed with Cain because Cain brought back the goods from external seeds planted and grown west of Eden (physical realm) where Abel brought forth creation itself in the sheep or she-rho, the divine nurturing feminine creative spirit breath from the east (spiritual realm). This is why we need to shut Cain down, the left brain, because he will plant any seed offered to him from the physical literal, every nasty thought, every harmful intention will be grown and harvested by those who partake in his worldly garden. Abel lives in the garden of Eden of the right brain, the rite or ritual brain. None of her thoughts can reach you until you silence Cain, the lamb, clear the RAM drive of Aries/Ares, god of war where the ROM or Rome drive is yours internally where it was shadowed in this realm with a phi-psi-cull city.

Rome or Rho-Ommmm is and always was yours and the physical one only represents everything inside of you. When you are at effect to the physical and literal Rome shennigans, your creative ability is being harvested, thus the phi (golden mean of creation), psi (the spirit), cull (to harvest or cull the herd/heard).

This is why I made the physical Rome my prime target at the beginning of my quest because where you find the darkest of dark, you will also find the lightest of light effects. The only real question is; "Can you neutralize/new trinity of all eyes it?" In this fractal creation of ours, everything that is external must also be internal, as within so without, as above so below. Can you see yourself reflected in this world or not since you are, in fact, reflecting it? I am now witnessing my own awakening potential with all the other parts of me that are resonating with what I and others share regarding this information.

When someone thanks me for what I share I also thank them equally in being the proof of my own awakening, where I am and where I need to go to shift laterally into the timeline I am intending. If we are yelling at the movie screen which is ALL things external, we are at effect and trapped via our emotions. We have allowed another to rule our thoughts/intents via emotions because we are somehow offended. We are then constantly at emotional effect to the physical effect of our own creation. Did we create god in our image or not? This is the shadow realm with infinite clues and confirmations once we truly begin to accept that all things are perfect.

If someone's day to day reality is jail, arresting, courts etc. like the Crown fiction types, how difficult will it be for them to imagine themselves in their own prisons? All it takes is for you to offer their Cain a real seed they can manifest in their reality and then let nature take its course. How many times has the fear seed been planted in your west of Eden field where you nurtured that thought to culmination and also reaped the harvest of it? Yup, every single time. What's cool about that, is that it works both ways and, once you reclaim your living spiritual aspect, you become pure cause and pure Abel to do this. I know, I do it every day now and simply watch my crops flourish with confirmation after confirmation (with fire/phi-Re Mother love creation mine) showing up.

My seeds are of a benevolent nature and thus, my intent is the same harvest. Sometimes you have to plant ragweed but then I'm very selective into which gardens I put those seeds. After all, I learned all I know with the ragweed seeds having been planted in my own garden. My writings are those seeds. What you are facing at all points in life are the tests to see how good your seeds are. If you have conflicts, you're genetically modifying your seeds to suit the fields so what are you really planning to harvest....roses? I think not.

In each of us lives the ME, the magnetic-electric of all creation inasmuch as we are all creations viewpoint from a rather narrow point of you. It is difficult to comprehend this vastness because it has been a very long time illusion since we have been Abel to do that. For me, this is beyond wondrous knowing that I am experiencing all things from all my other points of you where you are exactly the same. I am just another point of you, sharing this reality from this angel/angle's perspective. This is an infinite ladder (law-der or law of god) with infinite potentials and possibilities where we must see our own rungs, where we're at and remember, versus judge, others from a previous point of you to see how far we're climbing or falling on these rings once rungs.

As I see the very threads of creation weaving now with all things in all things, the word miraculous or mirror cull us, pales in comparison. Indeed, behold a pale horse/whores/Horus. As each illusional minute ticks by, I am sliding laterally into the timeline of my choice where ALL things I experience are accepted without limitations or expectations to allow my chosen intent to fully manifest. Did I mention that you are all superstars in my movie yet? We all must journey into the Labrynth to slay our own Minotaurs, our beasts within our humanity. The Minotaur is half man, half beast and once the duality of this physical realm is slain, the path out is easier because we left all the breadcrumbs to find our way home.

In the grand illusion cosmic joke we're playing on ourself here, we have to simply decide if we're going to fall for it or have a good laugh and climb on. The man-beast will be constantly trying to pull you back down the ladder with emotional traps to see if you'll still bite on illusions hook. It comes well baited with every drama imaginable to draw you in, to pull you back onto life's drama stage. I choose the only role I wish for now and that is one of the director with the option of making the odd cameo (spirit of my creation ka-me-o) appearance simply to have the experience now. It is a free willed choice, one made with an awareness long hidden and one of pure creational intent to play this movie in whatever direction I want now.

I keep the immutable law of never trespass in the forefront of my mind and live by the prime directive of non-interference as the neutral observer and enter the scenes only when asked by another of same intent. You see, asking a question is fairly wide open so don't be surprised if I only offer you a question in the mirror. This game is yours to play as it is mine and we have the free will choice to have in our movies everyone that so chooses to be there, again, with their own and my own free willed choice. That's when free will becomes true will and where the real magic begins. Only when you real eyes and see the definitive separation of body and spirit in the same way as oil and water that can never touch, will you real eyes the purpose of the mind as the walking between worlds YOU.

Cain will forever be jealous of Abel and he will kill her at the first instant you look away, to plant seeds of discord to keep your mind here and away from your god self. It wouldn't be a game otherwise. This is the fundamental root of the tree of life and knowledge to me. Only when we separate these things can we begin to fuse them properly to bring real causal action into our intentions. If you fail to see this, you will be at constant effect of others intent so don't bitch about it; it's your own fault as it was mine. That is not to say you or I have made a mistake because we haven't, we simply had another experience of contrast to climb even higher and higher on this ladder.

So, where do we go from here? I ask myself that all the time and then I imagine the reality I wish for and hold that position trusting fully that I am in my own arms and finished with letting myself down based on the seeds grown via Cain. Once I see or have seen the things I don't want, I have created all the contrasts in the mirror of the things I do want and it manifests accordingly with the only difference now being that I now own my intent where it was owned by another. It's like someone holding onto something for you until you were ready to take it back for fear of harming yourself because you weren't sure you could.

The certainty of beingness has to be achieved first because I have long said that it isn't a good idea to give a five year old matches and a bucket of gasoline just to see what happens. We've all been there and there are many beyond that and still many more that aren't. This is just an observation of my own limitations where I have chosen only to have the tools of creation where I will use them properly, from the neutral position where the intent is only creation, nothing more, nothing less. We can not be at peace with others if we are at war with ourselves and we cannot be at peace with ourselves if we are war with others either. It all works nicely in the mirror with the biggest challenge being looking into it properly in the first place.

I don't have all the answers but I have every imaginable or I'm a genie Abel question infinitely so the game to me is all about questions, especially the impossible one to answer; why? Any child can teach you that and why I ask that question so often because every time I do, it sends Cain into a tizzy and makes Abel giggle like the infinite schoolgirl she is. The Masonic can say "order out of chaos" all day long where I mirror it with "chaos out of order" because they are both the same thing though I felt it important to have both sides so that I may find balance. Cain can be a powerful tool or make you into one, the choice is yours and like truth, it's free.