

Cops Arrest Social Worker For Attempting Kidnapping in School Meeting

AP Newswire: June 25th, 2014

In a stranger than fiction truth, it would appear that some people who make bold claims as a result of their supposed "position of power" as a Social Worker, one young lady found out the hard way and ended up being arrested because of her threats to take a child away from her father during an "in-school" private meeting.

In an effort to maintain the "No LEGAL NAMES" theme that is boldly apparent in this strange turn of events, it would appear that the truths surrounding the much discussed topic of "No LEGAL NAME, No game" that has been popping up all over the internet lately and seems to be connected to www.kateofgaia.wordpress.com . It appears that a legal name has more power than most people have ever imagined in that having identification seems to be just part of our every day lives. This reporter has been busy over the last week researching this culmination of an ongoing matter that began about 2 months ago when a young girl of seven refused to answer to her name for the morning roll call register in class.

Upon further investigation and talking with a former attendance taker at a school, the roll call has a far more sinister under current than any caring parent could imagine. It seems that a school will not get paid for any child in that school if they do not answer to this legal name register even if they're in the school. How bizarre is that? What started out as an innocent question of "why do I need to come to school when everything I need to learn is all on the internet anyway?" much to the dismay of her teacher. This young child was then confronted by the teachers challenge of "if you think teaching is easy then why don't you try it?" in an obvious jilted ego attack that was promptly answered with "sure, I'll teach the class next week then" to which the teacher agreed thinking that this child would back down. Not on your life and it only gets better from here.

As a result of this, the child ended up getting a two week suspension from school but mainly because the school could not "legally" have her there as a result of register denial and a meeting for the other parents was set up because, in her absence, her friends started doing the same thing creating monetary mayhem for the school because of the no legal name claim by the children, thus, no pay for the school even with them there. The plot thickens at this point. The young lady, who we'll call "White" and her Dad were NOT invited to this meeting even though White was the basis for the meeting in the first place. Strange indeed and it gets even stranger.

White and her Dad did show up to the meeting where the Headmistress of the school denied them entry and threatened to call the police to which her Dad replied that he would call them for her if she wished. In a previous encounter that is proved by this articles end result, the very same police sergeant that White and her Mum had an encounter with not a week before with him unable to write White's Mum a ticket with the line "No names here mate" was the very same sergeant that showed up for the call. When the police were informed of the situation and the barring of White and her Dad in the meeting he asked the Headmistress if White's "legal name" was going to be mentioned during this meeting. she replied no, it wasn't. So the sergeant replied that to be sure, he was going to leave an officer behind to observe the meeting and that he would be under orders to arrest the Headmistress if she did. Of course there was the typical reaction of "You can't do that" to which he answered "Yes I can and I will". Fortunately for the Headmistress, she paid heed and never uttered White's legal name even when pushed by a parent "in the loop" at the meeting to try and get her to say it and she ended up tendering her resignation for retirement at the end of the school year a few days after the meeting. Hold on, it gets better by the minute. The officer in the meeting, who is well known by this parent living on the same street told him during the meeting; "All I know is that it is ILLEGAL to try and get some one to answer to a legal name that they have said is not them and that's why she cant say "Whites name."

There is far more to this story but I think by now you're starting to get the same sense as me in that "We're not in Kansas anymore Toto" and some very sinister hidden realities are coming to bear as a result of this refusing to answer to the legal name in classroom by a young child to the arrest of a social worker. There is only one common thread that seems to link all of this and the "why" it happened at all. In White's Dad's own words when asked, I was given the following so I will simply let him say what happened; after all, he was there. This reporter just took the liberty of a few corrections since newstype programs insists. This was a meeting they were at on June 24th, 2014

"So when we were on our way to the school we were walking past the cafe and we seen the sergeant outside the cafe and he called us over. So we were telling him where we were going and he gave us his phone number and said, "If you need me, just phone and if I can help I will" so I said thank you and off we went to the school. We got to the school and went in to see the headmistress and well, you got it; they were up to something in her office. There was a police officer and a social worker so we just laughed at them and the police officer didn't like that and got pissed off and said "if you carry on I will arrest you" and then the social worker said "and I will take your daughter away from you". So I said "you can try BUT with out a legal name you cant do anything because we know who we are!" and then I said to the officer "I think you need to talk to your sergeant before you carry on, I'll phone him for you" So I phoned him and said to him what was going on and he said "I knew they were up to something, I will be right in as I am outside now" and in about a minute there he was with 2 other officers. He said "Right what is going on?" and the social worker said "Well?" and the sergeant said I am not talking to any of you so he said to White "What has happened?" So White told him what the social worker had said and then the sergeant said to the officer who was with the social worker "Arrest her right now for trying to kidnap a child!" so he did and the social worker said "You can't do this to me, my Dad is a judge and he will have your job for this!" and the sergeant said "When your Daddy finds out what you just did he will be beside himself, now get her out of here, now!" and then he said to the headmistress of the school, "Next time, that will be you!" When we were outside he said to White "so do you know who you are?" "Yes" she said, "I am Phoenician, I am not of your world of words and spell, I am Phoenician, we are of sound truth and love". Then he bowed to her and turned and walked away. On the way home I said to white "what made you say that?" She said "I don't know dad, it just came out" "Can we go to the park?" "Yes" I said and I just left it at that. I'll have a talk with her after, I don't want to push her. What a day we have had. Thank you Kate for all that you are doing for everyone...xox.

The reference to "Kate" is directly connected to the website I mentioned earlier in the story. In a world where truth can often be stranger than fiction, it is this reporters opinion that a fiction of reality is the truth where much is apparently hidden from the general public's view. It is no mystery that much of what is really going on is never reported in our mainstream media streams but I felt this one had to be shared if only for the strangeness and the very serious questions it raises. Upon further research during the unfolding of this story, which has held my intense interest, I did discover something, actually many things surrounding this issue and topic and of course the numerous stories that come up discussing the much misaligned "Freeman on the Land/Sovereign Citizen" movements. This is nothing like I've ever encountered, let alone found proven to be true. It appears the previously mentioned freeman groups have it ALL wrong committing fraud with every claim they make using a legal name that isn't even theirs. It appears that under the fluffy surface of normal society that is portrayed to all of us, something very sinister is going on and it is now proven to be fact. The entire banking and legal system is based solely upon the legal name and getting people to admit that they are that name but unwittingly commit fraud EVERY time they do. The proof? This one is easy to prove with minimal looking into copyright law. All legal names are CROWN COPYRIGHTED so they belong to something or someone else. I could go into greater detail but upon visiting that website and reading a little I found one article that explains it all in one pass called "Babylon is Fallen" by kate of gaia notably devoid of any copyrights on her work and rather deliberately so. This reporter would simply urge you, if you want to learn more about how you're being fed off of by the "system" and its controllers, to read a few articles on that site but be warned; everything you thought you knew to be real will change. The good news is, it changed me for the much better. Now, if you will excuse me, this reporter has much reading to do and more news to share with regards to this "We must be in Oz" moment. For the sake of my job, I'm not adding my fraudulent LEGAL NAME here.....CPD
